

The expert in anything was once a beginner

Begginsers are my favourite type of student! It's always exciting to start from scratch with students to see how they grow their skills.

It doesn't matter if you don't know a word in Spanish. Together, we'll give the first steps to build up a strong foundation in this new language. Developing your language skills will encourage you to move forward in this fantastic journey.

Most of us are bad when it comes to learn a new language, but if you are reading this it's because, deep inside, you know you can do it!

This is what you will learn as a beginner:

1. Greetings and farewells.
2. Talking and asking personal information.
3. Identify, describe and compare people, places and objects.
4. Talking about frequent and weekend activities. Your routine.
5. Expressing tastes and preferences.
6. Making small purchases.
7. Embracing bars and restaurants.
8. Talking about eating habits and recipes.
9. Talking about plans
10. Invite, accept and refuse invitations.
11. Talk about feelings, emotions and health.
12. Making simple suggestions and recommendations.
13. Recounting a person's life story.
