

Take advantage of what you already know

If you already have some understanding of the Spanish language, well done! You are half way there and we can carry on shaping what you already know.

You might think at this point that you are not learning as fast as you used to, but that's absolutely normal. It's time to put everything you know into practice and become the fluent Spanish speaker you want to be. You will experience a significant improvement in your communicative skills and we'll work to make you feel comfortable expressing yourself in a wide range of scenarios.

This is what you will learn as an intermediate:

1. Talking about habits in the past and present.
2. Telling and reacting to an anecdote.
3. Expressing cause and effect.
4. Expressing one's desires, complaints and needs.
5. Evaluating, asking for, and giving an opinion.
6. Expressing one's interests and feelings.
7. Giving recommendation and advice.
8. Talking about future acts and situations.
9. Making hypothesis in past, present or future.
10. Talking about possibilities (degree of security)
11. Summarising another's response and transmitting information
